23rd Fujitsu Cup

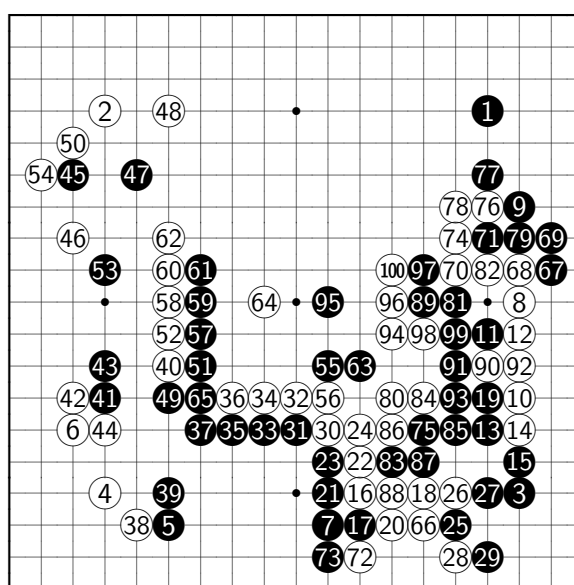

Diagram. 1
(Moves: 1-100)

April 14 2010, Tokyo, Japan: 23rd Fujitsu Cup Quarter Finals

Gu Li 9d (black) vs Lee Sedol 9d

The opening up to 25 was popular at the time.

28 was a nice move to take sente.

50 and 52 were Lee's fighting style of play, and Black started to attack both White's bottom and right side.

75 and 83 were severe attack, but White managed the situation well up to 94.

197 at 171, 200 at 164.

107 was a sharp tesuji, but 108 and 110 were a good combination to escape.

118 and 120 were good sequence, and there was bad aji left in the top right corner.

Cutting at 133 was severe, but White managed to save his group up to 144.

Black went all out with 155, but 158 was a good move to take sente, and the game was practically decided with 164.

178 was questionable, and Black caught up with 185.

However, White was still leading the game with the ko from 192.

Some more comments

Eventually, White had more ko threats, and Black couldn't have any chances to catch up.

264 moves: White won by resignation.
